Commentary from Pyongyang on Trump's UN speech

Dear friends,

Warm greetings from Pyongyang.

U.S. President Trump spit out unprecedented rubbish that he would wipe a country of 25 million people off the map, not just "regime change" in his speech at the 72nd UN General Assembly.

His remarks has shocked the whole world.

The Washington Post said the recent remarks made by Trump was a "prepared speech in which his words were undoubtedly pored over extensively beforehand" and that it sounds a lot like Trump is threatening a completely unprecedented effort to wipe out an entire nation, whether through nuclear weapons or more conventional means and it's a remarkably big statement, and the White House will undoubtedly be asked to clarify.

The paper also derided the words of "totally destroying the north" as the one "full of childish curses rather than strong expression", saying "the speech made by the U.S. president will be remembered as one of speeches by boss of gangsters".

The CNN quoted a senior UN diplomat as saying there was shock in the room when Trump threatened destruction, adding that Trump's statement to the north goes beyond reason like his words "fire and fury".

The British newspaper the Financial Times said the UN has never heard such a speech as what was made by Trump and that no one out of the successive U.S. presidents said such words inciting such a conflict with the rival.

Foreign news reported that Trump's speech went so much beyond the expectations that even the presidential chief of staff of White House John Kelly was seen bewildered with his head in his hands when he was listening to the speech in field.

Swedish Foreign Minister Margot Elisabeth Wallstrom denounced Trump's speech as "nationalist speech", noting it was "in breach of the UN charter."

German Chancellor Merkel said that military solution is absolutely unsuitable and former U.S. State Secretary Hillary Clinton denounced Trump's speech as very dark and dangerous one.

Senator Diane Feinstein, a Democratic critic of Trump's, said "Trump's bombastic threat to destroy North Korea ... are severe disappointments," adding "Today, the president used it as a stage to threaten war."

Ted, member of the House of Representatives of the Democratic Party, recalling Trump's remarks said that "he threatened he would destroy other country", adding problem is not whether the U.S. can destroy North Korea but whether he can cope with south Korea, Japan and even Guam being destroyed and with thousands of Americans being sacrificed in the course of doing so.

The international community is raising voices of denunciation, being deeply concerned about such outbursts and wild words as "total destruction" of a sovereign state, not just "overturn of social system" and "regime change".

The question is that despite the critical situation the member states of the UN Security Council, who have raised their voices whenever we take defensive measure against the military threat of the U.S., close their eyes on it.

Is it because they do not know that the U.S. is the ringleader who causes the vicious circle of tension escalation in and around the Korean peninsula? No. They know well, but turn their faces.

This shows well the current situation in the UN Security Council, the mission of which is to maintain the international peace and security.

Recently the UN Security Council plays the role of covering the U.S. highhandedness and arbitrariness and peace disturbance with the name of UN, despite the international law and justice.

In the March and August we sent letters to the UN Secretary General and the President of the UN Security Council that disclose the aim, aggressive and dangerous characteristics of the joint military drills of the U.S. and south Korea, the cause of the tension escalation on the Korean peninsula, and appeal to discuss it as the urgent agenda.

But every time the UN Security Council turned their blind eyes on it.

Otherwise they continue to fabricate the anti-DPRK criminal documents including "Sanctions Resolution", questioning our every defensive measures to prevent war and secure peace.

This is the mockery against the humankind who desire peace and justice and is the extreme double-standard.

The UN Security Council, which abandoned its mission and principle to safeguard the world peace and security, is responsible for current touch-and-go situation on the Korean peninsula.

The unreasonable maneuvers of the UN Security Council that covers the U.S. let us realize again that our enforcement of the war deterrent is the just measure to defend the national sovereignty and right to live and to safeguard the peace in and around the Korean peninsula, so that it can not be questioned by any others. And that the real international justice can only be realized and safeguarded during the fierce confrontation with the enemy forces who are going to disturb the peace.

We firmly believe that you, loving peace and justice, will send sincere support and solidarity to the Korean people in their struggle for defend the dignity and destiny of the nation and to safeguard the peace and security in the region.

Best regards!
